Congress Moves To Avoid Fall Session

LEADERS URGING BLOCS TO JOIN BILL CLEAN UP

F. D. R. Has Power to Call
Special Meeting for Farm Legislation

POSSIBILITY IS DOUBTED

Tax, Wage-Hour Measures
Facing Delay

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6—(UP)—Congressional leaders advised a group of farm state congressmen today that the administration sees no need for a special session of congress in October to enact a general crop control program.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6—(UP)—Congressional leaders sought to swing turbulent legislative blocs into line today to clean up the administrative legislative program in two weeks and avoid a special autumn session.

Agitation for action by congress to provide for an October or November session to enact farm legislation appeared unlikely to succeed barring unexpected developments. Leaders pointed out, however, that President Roosevelt had the power to summon them back late in the year.

Several senators close to the White House expressed hope that Mr. Roosevelt would call a special session, but friends of Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky discounted such suggestions.

Committee Must Hasten

"If the agriculture committee hastens its work," Barkley said, "and has a bill ready for action by the middle of October or the first of November, the president will undoubtedly exercise his right to call congress into extraordinary session to consider the legislation."

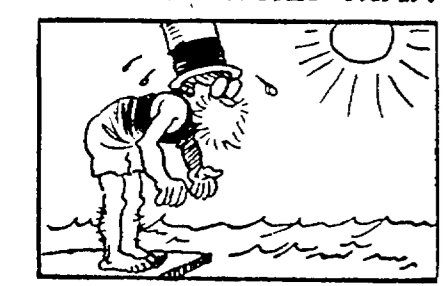

It was pointed out, however, (Continued on Page Eight)

LIQUOR STORE 'FISHERMAN' TELLS JUDGE

NEW YORK, Aug. 6—(UP)—Patrolman William Koster wrote a "fish story" on the police blotter today. He arrested Frank C. Fisher for casting on Lexington avenue where there are no fish.

Fisher fished through the transom of a liquor store with rod and reel to which he had attached a rope with a noose in it. Patrolman Koster decided it was fishy business after Fisher fished out several bottles of rum and whiskey.

Americans Willing To Aid Chinese

7,000 Applied for Jobs
As Mercenaries to Fight Japanese

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 6—(UP)—Seven thousand American fighting men, including 1,000 fliers, were reported today to have applied for enlistment in a brigade of mercenaries being organized here to help oppose the Japanese invasion of China.

In charge of the organization is Russell L. Hearn, a soldier of fortune who was commissioned a lieutenant-general by the late Marshal Chang Tso-Lin, dictator of Peiping.

Most of the volunteers were said to be former service men, with artillery, infantry or aviation experience. They made application by letter, telegram and telephone from a score of the larger cities of the country.

Federal departments here were noncommittal on the project. The American neutrality law forbids the recruiting "for hire" of men or of arms for use in foreign military campaigns. Hearn, it was said, hoped to evade the law by promising the men no specific pay.

WAGNER FIGHTS NEW LIMITATION TO HOUSE COST

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6—(UP)—Supporters of the Wagner housing bill today sought to modify a provision written into the measure limiting the cost of housing projects to $1,000 a room and $4,000 a family unit.

Sen. Robert F. Wagner, D. N. Y., sponsor of the bill, lined up votes to raise the limit for each room to $1,400 and to remove the unit restriction entirely. He said he believed the modification would be approved.

The $1,000-$4,000 limits were placed in the measure Wednesday over Wagner's objection. They were advocated by Sen. Harry Flood Byrd, D. Va., vehement critic of administration spending policies.

For the fourth consecutive day, Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky said he hoped the bill would be passed finally before night. Approval has been delayed by debate on a series of amendments.

An amendment sponsored by Sen. Marvel Mills Logan, D. Ky., to place the proposed housing authority under the interior department was scheduled for an early vote. The bill would establish the authority as an independent agency.

CHRYSLER, U.A.W. UNABLE TO ENI LABOR TROUBLE

DETROIT, Aug. 6—(UP)—Attempt to settle a new labor controversy in the automobile industry were lost today in a muddle of charges and countercharges by the Chrysler Corporation and the United Automobile Workers' Union.

More than 21,000 workers were idle as the opposing factions argued whether the company of the union had broken the agreement that ended a general Chrysler strike last winter. Each placed responsibility on the other, and an early settlement appeared improbable.

Chrysler had closed its Plymouth factory, employing approximately 11,000 workers, following a fight between U. A. W. members and proponents of the independent association of Chrysler employees, a newly-formed union opposed to the U. A. W.

The parent organization, the C. I. O. The shut-down forced the Briggs Manufacturing company, which makes bodies for Chrysler, to lay off its 10,000 workers.

CANNERIES PLAN TO SPEED PACK OF COUNTY CORN

Esmeralda and Crites Ready
To Open Plants Monday;
Winorr Busy Now

HUGE CROP IS READY

Circleville Factory Using
Lima Beans Friday

Pack of one of the biggest corn crops in recent years in Pickaway county will be in full blast next week with more factories opening their doors to load after flood of the well-filled ears. The crop is ripening in "fine style," according to one canner, and is ready for the processors.

The Esmeralda Co. has called its employees to go to work next Monday morning. The company lost much corn in the Scioto river floods during the early summer, but its officials expect to turn out many cases of its "Famous" brand.

The Crites Milling Co. will open its canning operations in New Holland and Jeffersonville, the latter in Fayette county, Monday or Tuesday with indications pointing toward a Monday start. Under present plans the Ashville plant will not handle any corn. The Crites Co., too, lost many acres of sweet corn in bottom lands.

The Winorr Co. has been handling corn since last Saturday, and is expecting to increase its output early next week. The Winorr Co. started its lima bean pack Thursday.

COP'S TROUSERS GO INTO GRAVE, CAPTAIN IS TOLD

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6—(UP)—When a policeman's trousers are buried—and on a stranger, at that—Private Edwin B. Crandall feels the police department deserves an explanation. So today he left this note on his captain's desk:

"About 10 a. m., Aug. 2, 1937, I left a pair of serge trousers, property of the Metropolitan police department, to be pressed at the ... tailor shop. When I returned for the same about 12 noon, same date, Mr. ... was unable to locate them."

"On Aug. 3, 1937, I called at aforesaid shop and was informed by the owner that the trousers had been delivered to a family in Virginia who had placed them on a deceased relative, who was buried on the latter date."

"I conferred with Inspector William Stout's office and was advised the last contract price on serge trousers issued to the department was $7.15, which amount I am desirous of paying when so directed."

Court Order Restrains Youthful Screen Star

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 6—(UP)—Freddie Bartholomew, the boy actor whose services are priced higher than those of the president of the United States, was restrained by court order today from performing for any other movie studio than Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer which has him under contract.

The 13-year-old boy's movie career has ended, at least temporarily, the studio announced. His salary was stopped July 15 because of his "non-performance."

His aunt and guardian, Miss Mylicent Bartholomew, has refused to let him work unless the studio pays him $2,500 a week. The studio offered him $2,000 a week for a 40-week year, which would gross him $80,000 a year, a $5,000 higher wage than the president's.

Miss Bartholomew said that Freddie could not meet his obligations—income taxes, lawyers and

Baby Born Minute After Mother Dies May Survive, Doctors Say

PHYSICIANS INTERESTED
IN FATE OF BABY BORN
AFTER MOTHER'S DEATH

Circleville physicians, Friday, termed the effort of Philadelphia, Pa. physicians to save the life of a baby taken from its mother after she had died "unusual but not unknown." The local medicos were divided in their opinions whether the infant, weighing between three and four pounds, would survive.

One physician applauded the Philadelphia physicians for the move they made in attempting to save the child although the mother's life was lost. The mother died of tuberculosis.

Another said he believed the child would die since its temperature a minute after birth was 100 degrees.

All Circleville physicians expressed much interest in the case and its outcome.

WHITE TO FACE COURT HEARING ON SEPTEMBER 17

Hearing for Charles White, 29, of Lancaster and Columbus, arrested in Sheriff Charles Radcliffe's office, the "number" racket, and at liberty under $1,000 bond, has been assigned by Judge J. W. Adkins for Sept. 17.

White was arrested in Columbus by the Franklin county sheriff's department on a charge filed in common pleas court here by James Fouch, E. Ohio street. Fouch served time in the county jail and was placed under parole on a charge of engaging in the "number" racket.

The charge contends that White promoted the racket in Pickaway county "on or about the first of June."

WOMAN'S KNEE INJURED IN EAST RINGGOLD WRECK

Mrs. Leslie Spangler, Route 4, received a cut knee Thursday evening when the auto in which she was riding was involved in a collision in East Ringgold.

Autos involved in the crash were driven by Gerald A. Bowman and Mrs. Audrey Spangler, both of Circleville, Route 3.

BICYCLE TOO ROUGH FOR DRIVER OF AUTOMOBILE

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Aug. 6—(UP)—Leland Wilson, 15, ran his bicycle head-on into an automobile driven by C. L. Ellis, 39. The bicycle climbed the front of the car, crashed through the windshield and struck Ellis on the head. He was treated for lacerations. The cyclist was uninjured.

Tear Gas No Weapon at all In Fight With Irate Skunk

CORNING, Calif., Aug. 6—(UP)—Leroy Martin, Corning poultryman, released a cloud of tear gas into a culvert in which he had trapped a chicken-stealing skunk. The animal retaliated with its own protective fluid. The rancher retreated to get a shotgun and end the battle.

Three Years Remain So Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, whose contract with Freddie has three more years to run, returned his affairs to the courtroom yesterday in a petition for injunction.

The studio said that unless the agents fees, contributions to his parents and sisters and his own maintenance—and still save enough for his future to make the job worth while with less than $2,500.

Infant Opens Eyes in Philadelphia Hospital as Physicians Fight to Save Her Life

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Aug. 6—(UP)—Surgeons performed a caesarian operation on the dead body of Mrs. Mary Boccawinski in Philadelphia General hospital today and brought into life a baby girl. The mother had died a few seconds before of tubercular meningitis.

Man's surgery culminated a duel between two forces of nature—one creative, the other destructive—that had been raging within Mrs. Boccawinski's frail body for hours. While the meningitis virus crept toward her brain to kill her, her reproductive functions fought to give birth to her baby normally.

At 2:15 a. m. (EST) today, the destructive force won. The surgical instruments had been sterilized, and Dr. John Corbit, resident obstetrician, his assistant and nurses were waiting. Sixty seconds later, the life that had been condemned with Mrs. Boccawinski's life, was saved by science.

Breathing Difficult

Mrs. Boccawinski's temperature was 109.4 degrees at death. Her baby was born with a high temperature, small and frail, and began breathing with difficulty. At 3 a. m. her temperature had fallen to 103.1 and her tiny black eyes were open for the first time.

"The baby is expected to live," Dr. Corbit announced. "She is having trouble breathing, but oxygen is being administered to her."

The baby could not be weighed at once, but she was estimated to weigh between three and four pounds.

Dr. Corbit said that there was only a slight possibility of the baby having been infected by her mother's disease. Tuberculosis is not an hereditary disease, though one may inherit a tendency toward it.

"We are going to feed her with a tube, but we won't attempt it until later this morning," the obstetrician said. He added that a solution of five percent sugar, eight percent salt and water would be fed to the child.

A tiny oxygen tent, which Dr. Corbit made of X-ray film, was placed over the head of the little girl, unnamed as yet.

She will be moved to the children's hospital, which is more fully equipped to care for her, later today if she is strong enough, the surgeon said.

"The child is apparently very sturdy," one of the nurses who assisted Dr. Corbit said. "She lived through a temperature of 109.4. It's a wonder she wasn't paralyzed."

The husband and father, Dominic, who had consented to the post-mortem caesarian only after the commonwealth of Pennsylvania had ruled that it was proper and could be performed without his permission, was not at the hospital. There had been two nights and a day of intensified anxiety. During that time, Mrs. Boccawinski had been in the process of dying and the destructive force within her was master. Its victim had been rendered unconscious, her pulse slowing, and a nurse sat beside her bed waiting for the instant of death. Then, suddenly, the creature—

RUSSIAN ORGAN CLAIMS CHURCH TRAINING SPIES

MOSCOW, Aug. 6—(UP)—Izvestia, official government organ, accused the Pope today of maintaining a spy school and supplying spies in states bordering on Russia.

The newspaper revealed that numerous espionage trials of priests are in progress or impending and indicated that death penalties will be imposed.

The Izvestia article was signed by an unidentified writer, S. Kandakov. It said:

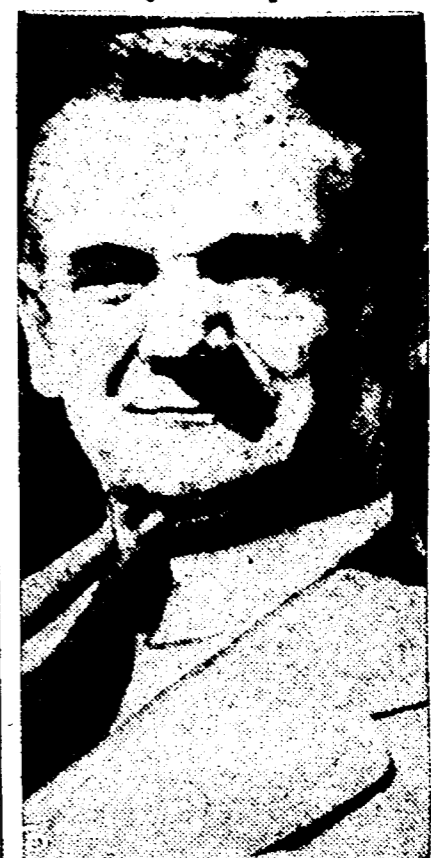

"The head of the Roman Catholic church does not confine himself to anti-Soviet attacks. There exists in Rome a special school, 'Russicum,' in which unemployed white guards are trained as spies and anti-Soviet propagandists."

"This institution supplies agents to the secret services of a number of states bordering our eastern and western frontiers."

200 Americans Endangered as
"State of Emergency" is

CRISIS BELIEVED NEAR

Boycott of Merchants Angers
Island Empire

SHANGHAI, Aug. 6—(UP)—Japan, pleading acute danger to its citizens, landed marines today at Hankow, far up the Yangtze river in the heart of central China, and made dramatic preparations to evacuate civilians.

Three United States river gunboats stood by to safeguard any of the 200 Americans in the city endangered.

Japanese news agency reports related a tense situation which caused a decision by the commander of the 14th Japanese torpede boat Flotilla to declare "a state of emergency" and land his marines—600 miles up the Yangtze river and 600 miles south of the fighting zone in North China.

Japanese ex-service men among the residents of Hankow were mobilized, the reports said, to aid marines in safeguarding and evacuating civilians.

Residents were ordered to assemble at the Japanese wharf at 6 o'clock tonight (5 a. m. EST).

Many Leave City

Five hundred Japanese women and children, dispatched to Hankow in two river ships for Shanghai, left in the mouth of the river.

Plans were made for the 600 men remaining to concentrate at the wharf and if necessary board a Japanese ship which was to be towed into midstream, in event of emergency, while the marines and mobilized ex-service men covered the withdrawal and themselves retired to Japanese warships.

Japanese reports of the situation were excited, as if a crisis impended.

However, a business man here, who succeeded in radiophoning his Hankow office late today was told that the city was quiet and that no marines were apparent in the streets of the concession near the Hankow office.

This was taken to mean that the marines were being kept at the river front.

Communications with Hankow were congested.

Part of the Japanese anxiety seemed due to a blanket boycott slapped on them by student organizers who campaigned against purchase of "enemy" goods by Chinese.

Japanese Boycotted

It was said that merchants refused to sell rice, salt or gasoline to Japanese because they were "war" commodities, that

AIDE TO LEWIS SCORES SPEECH OF STEEL CHIEF

NEW YORK, Aug. 6—(UP)—Tom Girdler, chairman of the Republic Steel Corporation, is "whistling in the dark to keep up his courage," John Brophy, executive director of the Committee for Industrial Organization, said today.

Brophy answered an assertion by Girdler that John L. Lewis, C. I. O. chief, was "on the down grade, because he did not give the workers the type of responsible leadership they wanted."

After an address to the national convention of the American Radio Telegraphists Association last night, Brophy said:

"Girdler's tall talk about the C. I. O. slipping is just like a boy whistling in the dark to keep up his courage. Steel is organized 75 percent and covered by collective bargaining agreements."

"The same is true in automobile manufacturing and a number of other industries where non-unionism ruled before the C. I. O. came in and organized its drives. It is a remarkable record of achievement."

Brophy denied a report that the C. I. O. chiefs had split with Lewis.

Blind of Ohio Provided Chance By Commissions

COLUMBUS, Aug. 6.—The combined efforts of the State Division of Public Assistance and the Ohio Commission for the Blind in assisting needy blind persons are providing a new lease on life for Ohio's sightless.

Working in close harmony with each other, the Division of Public Assistance and the Commission have succeeded in rehabilitating many blind persons so that in the future they might become self-supporting citizens in their communities.

Through the Commission, headed by William E. Bartram, executive secretary, many of the State's blind have been taught vocations and have been provided with means of employment in the drive to rehabilitate Ohio's visually handicapped persons.

An example of the work being carried on for the blind is revealed in a recent report of the commission which shows that during the first six months of 1937 sales of products made by the state's blind totaled over $23,997.

Products Marketed
The products such as brooms, toys, aprons, and other similar items, are marketed largely through the efforts of the Ohio Federation of Women's Clubs and the cooperation of several large department stores.

In addition to teaching the blind trades, the Commission has succeeded in obtaining employment for the blind as news stand operators in public buildings. The recent opening of a stand in Columbus' New Federal Building marked the eighteenth such stand to be placed into operation in Ohio by the Commission.

One of the outstanding achievements of the Commission, which has won it nation-wide acclaim, has been the work to rehabilitate the vision of those whose sight can be corrected.

Through remarkable operations by Dr. Claude Perry, Columbus, staff ophthalmologist for the Commission, and a number of their outstanding oculists who contributed their services to the state program, sight has been restored to numerous blind persons, many of them without vision since childhood.

Sight rehabilitation has also been the chief undertaking for years of a staff of nurses specially trained to combat diseases of the eye. In many cases throughout the state, blindness has been prevented and eye ailments corrected through efforts of the nursing corps working under direction of the Commission.

The Division of Public Assistance, operating under provisions of the Social Security Act, has also done constructive work in rendering aid to the needy blind during the past year.

Provide Better Group

The Social Security program, in addition to providing financial assistance to the indigent blind, has succeeded in aiding many visually handicapped persons to take a better grasp on life in order that they might enjoy a happier existence.

LeRoy Bussart, 35, Columbus insurance agent, accused of robbing the Lawrenceville postoffice, June 28, was taken to Cincinnati Thursday from Detroit to await action by the federal grand jury in Columbus.

Bussart waived examination before a U. S. commissioner in Detroit. He is accused of taking $100 in cash and money order blanks.

PLANES ATTACK BRITISH TANKER NEAR ALMERIA

SOS Sent Out By Corporal,
But Plea For Help Is

RADIO RECEIVER BROKEN

Loyalists Say Nationalist
Ships In Attack

LONDON, Aug. 6.—(UP)—The British tank steamship British Corporal appealed urgently for aid today against a bombing attack by airplanes in the Mediterranean, and then cancelled its appeal, the admiralty announced.

LONDON, Aug. 6.—(UP)—The British tank steamship Corporal has sent out an SOS call asking immediate aid after being bombed off the Mediterranean coast of Spain, the admiralty announced today.

The ship was attacked between Almeria and Cartagena, off the loyalist controlled east coast, the admiralty said.

That the ship's plight was serious was indicated by its request for rescue ships to hurry.

"Receiver broken, concussion," said the SOS from the ship, and from this the admiralty deduced that it was unable to receive wireless messages though it could send them.

The ship's position was given as 36:53 north latitude, 2:25 east longitude, on the main shipping route from the east coast of Spain and around the coast to the Gibraltar straits.

On May 15, the British destroyer Hunter struck a mine off Almeria, on the southeast coast. Eight men were killed and 15 wounded.

The British Corporal was homeward bound from Abadan Island in the Persian gulf, where the Anglo-Persian oil company has refineries.

The British Corporal is a tank ship of 6,972 tons owned by the British Tanker Co., Ltd. Its home port is London.

MARSEILLES, France, Aug. 6.—(UP)—Coastal wireless stations intercepted SOS calls from the British steamship British Corporal today, reporting that it had been attacked by Spanish nationalist airplanes and asking immediate aid.

UNIVERSITY ACTS TO END THREAT OF PARALYSIS

Advance precautions against deaths from respiratory paralysis due to infantile paralysis have been taken by University Hospital with the ordering of a mechanical respirator, or "iron lung," expected to be received in Columbus within a month.

The respirator will be supplied by a private manufacturer and paid for through a financial grant from the proceeds of the President's Birthday Ball, annual benefit party to aid in the fight against infantile paralysis.

Ohio State university also has set aside space on the fifth floor of the University hospital addition now being built by W.P.A. for later installation of a room in which five patients may be given mechanical respiration simultaneously.

Installation of the latter apparatus would give Columbus one of the few hospitals in the country so equipped. The new hospital wing will house a state free clinic and an isolation ward now located in an old wooden army barracks on the Ohio State University campus. Hospital officials estimated not more than one hospital in 30 in the nation is specially equipped, as the new addition will be, to treat contagious diseases.

Blore, Famous As Movie Butler, Named In Divorce

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 6.—(UP)—Eric Blore, one of the drooler movie actors, had a habit of leaving home, getting drunk, associating with other women and calling his wife by telephone to "introduce his new roommate and bed partner," Clara Mackin Blore charged in a separate maintenance suit on file today.

Mrs. Blore asked temporary alimony of $900 a month, with $2,500 lawyer's fees and $250 court costs, pending trial of her case. After that, she said, she would ask for half his earnings for herself and their son, Eric, 10.

She said that Blore, who is usually found in English butler roles, was earning $650 a week and was due for a raise in October.

LEADING VILLAGE MEN GATHER TO PLAN ACTIVITIES

Community Club To Assure Ashville Proper Place In Business World

MARGULIS TOASTMASTER

Walnut Township Youngsters Prepare For Trip

By S. D. FRIDLEY
Phone Ashville 79

And it has come into being again, the Ashville community Club. A "just splendid" meeting, so all the boys we have talked to say, about the initial one held Thursday noon at the Scioto Valley Creamery office. About fifty of the Ashville business men were present and enthusiastic over the prospects of "doing the thing needed" to get Ashville pushed back on the map again.

Mayor Harry Margulus acted as toastmaster, made a fitting talk himself and called upon others who expressed themselves as willing to help do all they could to make Ashville the "live-wire" village it should be—and can be if a united effort is made to this end. This was the sentiment of a number of those who made short talks.

The next meeting of the Community Club will be held next Wednesday evening, August 11, at the Creamery dining room.

Bauer Sale Good
The public sale of household goods at the home of Jacob Bauer near Walnut store yesterday was well attended and prices ruled good. A. B. Courtwright was auctioneer. Mr. Bauer will remove to Flint, Mich.

Boys Ready for Trip
Russell Hedges, Walnut township, is tuning up a school bus to the minutest detail for a trip to Washington D. C. He will be accompanied by twenty-one boys of the Walnut township schools and community. Prof. Bowne, the agriculture teacher, there, will go with the youngsters. Hon. H. C. Claypool, member of congress from this district, will see to it that the boys see "all the sights" they care to. The start will be made Monday morning and the trip is to be a full week.

Some News Notes
Prof. C. A. Higley and E. F. Martin are playing the carpenter game shingling the Higley dwelling.

God Feeds a People

"BRASS TACKS" ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for Aug. 8 is Exodus 16:1-17:7, especially 16:11-20; 17:3-6, the Golden Text being James 1:17, "Every good gift and every perfect gift is from above, coming down from the Father.")

IN THE month and a half since they left Egypt the children of Israel had seen one continuous succession of mighty works of God wrought in their behalf: their deliverance at the Red sea; the destruction of the Egyptian hosts of Pharaoh; the guidance of the cloud by day and the pillar of fire by night; the sweetening of the bitter waters at Marah; and yet, despite all these, at the first sign of hardship they murmur against Moses and Aaron and wish themselves back in Egyptian slavery.

Israel's Murmuring

"And the whole congregation of the children of Israel murmured against Moses and against Aaron; and said unto them, would that we had died by the hand of the Lord in Egypt, when we sat by the flesh pots, when we did eat bread to the full; for ye have brought us forth into this wilderness to kill this whole assembly with hunger." How ungrateful to their God, and how unappreciative of their self-sacrificing leaders! Did not the overshadowing cloud testify to them that God was with them, even the God of their salvation of whom they sang at the Red sea? How wicked of them to thus murmur against him! And, yet how gracious is their God under this provocation! There is no rebuke upon them, "for he knoweth our frame; he remembereth that we are dust." Instead of punishing he provides.

"Then said the Lord unto Moses, Behold, I will rain bread from heaven for you; and the people shall go out and gather a day's portion every day, that I may prove them, whether they will walk in my law or no." God caused great flocks of quails to cover the camp, and the people had flesh to eat in the evening. And in the morning God sent them bread, covering the ground with the dew. "Manna" said the people, as they saw it, or "What is it?" And Moses said unto them, "It is the bread which the Lord hath given you to eat."

Restrictions of the Manna

God rationed this heavenly bread, an omer to each person. He also taught them to look to him for "daily bread." For this heavenly bread was not to be hoarded, but gathered each day except the Sabbath. When this provision was violated "it bred worms, and stank." Thus through forty years they ate from the hand of God and were sustained and saved. Jesus pointed back to this gift of the manna and declared it a type of himself, saying: "I am the bread of life. . . I am the living bread which came down out of heaven: if any man eat of this bread he shall live forever: yea and the bread which I will give is my flesh,

STATE IS HIGH IN VOLUME OF TREE PLANTING

COLUMBUS, Aug. 6—Ohio is not ordinarily ranked high in forestry but the farmers here were third among those of the nation in planting trees in 1936 and led planters in all states of the north central group, which includes Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, and six others.

F. W. Dean, extension forester, Ohio State university, also claims that mining and industrial companies order number of trees from the state forest nurseries for forest planting. The 1937 plantings in Ohio will total 7,850,000, an increase of more than a million over the 1936 plantings.

Mr. Dean says this year has been one of the most favorable on record for getting trees established. Frequent rains have kept practically all of the seedlings and transplants growing after they have been planted. This is in marked contrast to the 1936 season when the drought killed recently planted trees and thousands of old ones which had withstood weather conditions through long periods.

Popular varieties of conifers for Ohio plantings, according to Mr. Dean, are white, red, shortleaf, Scotch, and Austrian pines, and Norway spruce. The hardwoods supplied by the forest nursery include black walnut, tulip poplar, red oak, white oak, white ash, sugar maple, and black locust. Trees from the state nursery were sent this year to 1,150 co-operators, who agreed to plant them and give them protection from fire and grazing. Mr. Dean states that fires and livestock are the greatest enemies of forest reproduction.

ANNUAL POULTRY SCHOOL PLANNED WEEK OF SEPT. 13

COLUMBUS, Aug. 6—Ohio poultrymen who are interested in poultry judging, selection, breeding, flock management, or blood testing are invited to attend the 14th annual judging school to be held at Ohio State University, Sept. 13 to 17.

R. E. Cray, specialist in poultry husbandry at the University, says the course of study is designed primarily for owners of chick hatcheries who wish to improve their brooding flocks but the information given during the five days will be of great value to any commercial poultryman. Ohio is cooperating in the national plan to improve poultry industry in this state.

This year's school will continue one day longer than has been the custom in previous years. Mr. Cray says quite a percentage of the poultrymen who attend have taken the course before return to learn any new developments in disease control or other flock management practices. Registration will take place at the Poultry Building from 9:00 a. m. to 10 a. m., Monday Sept. 13.

OPEN LETTERS

TO GRID LIGHT COMMITTEE

MEN: The progress made in the drive to complete arrangements for lighting the high school football field is pleasing to many interested persons. It is hoped that the lights will be installed and ready to be turned on at the beginning of the football season. It will, of course, be necessary to do some reorganizing of the schedule, but it seems that all schools now booked will be willing to play at night. Much of the success of the program is in the hands of Tom Gilliland, Clark Will, Harry Heffner, Frank Lynch and L. M. Mader, designated as the board of managers. I hope that the contract for the work is completed and actual construction started before very long.

CIRCUITEER

TO PROPERTY OWNERS

TAXPAYERS: I had the opportunity last week to take an automobile tour through parts of the city, and I was agreeably surprised at the general improvement that has been made so far this year in the way of remodeling and tidying up homes. I dare say there have been 50 homes repainted and many others remodeled. It was pleasant, too, to see the interest that has been taken this year in lawns. There is nothing that impresses visitors more than well kept homes.

TO ROBERT TERHUNE

EDUCATOR: Your many friends are pleased to note your appointment as principal of Circleville high school. Your work at Jackson township where you served a year as principal and another as superintendent has earned you a promotion. The position provides a splendid field for an aggressive and co-operating executive. You have many boys and girls, all of different nature and temperament, with which to deal. You have a faculty of trained and efficient educators to supervise. The result of the work of the high school can only be determined in years to come. I wish you success in your new field.

CIRCUITEER

TO LOVERS OF MUSIC

FRIENDS: Autumn is fast-approaching, and then comes Winter, long and cold and dreary. Why does not some Circleville or Pickaway county organization go to work to organize a choral society to provide diversion during the long period in which outdoor activities are prevented? There are many good singers in Circleville; many persons would welcome the opportunity to join such an organization. There are enough semi-social clubs to help support a mixed chorus and enough persons available to listen to its performances. Why not do something about it?

CIRCUITEER

TO COUNTY GRANGERS

FOLK: Orchids are due to the persons who advanced the idea for the programs which are being provided this year in the grange meetings. Attendance of from 100 to 300 has been noted in several of the gatherings, and much of the success has been due to the interesting programs presented. The granges are doing splendid work, not only in our county, but all over the nation, so more power to you who are responsible for continued success.

CIRCUITEER

TO BILL PASSERS

WORKERS: Since councilmen refuse to take any action about bill passing in Circleville, I hope those who pass the bills will grant residents some consideration. If you must leave a handbill, please place it where it will stay and not be tossed about in the yard by the wind. This idea of chasing handbills over the yard becomes rather disgusting. Someone will soon be soliciting this city with special boxes in which to place handbills.

CIRCUITEER

TO OHIO STREET RESIDENTS

FRIENDS: In the past years officials of the Mount of Praise have experienced considerable trouble with vendors along Ohio street, near the campgrounds. Last year balloons and whistles were sold to youngsters. These toys failed to fit in properly with camp meeting sessions. Officials were kept busy warning children and parents about the noise. Property owners along the street, who rent space for stands, should be careful to investigate the type of merchandise to be sold. In general, these stands cause traffic congestions. Property owners would be wise to check with city officials before leasing ground for stands. Mayor Graham has been asked to closely check the situation for violations of the itinerant vendor regulations of the city. A city license is required of itinerant vendors.

CIRCUITEER

TO RURAL RESIDENTS

FARMERS: Word from Washington, that the Rural Electrification Administration has given assurance that the request of the South Central Ohio Rural Electrification Co-operative for a loan of $180,000 would be granted, is pleasing to hundreds of rural folk in this county who have been waiting patiently for electric lines to reach their farms. Pickaway county expects to receive funds from the second grant. Construction work on lines would be started as soon as possible.

CIRCUITEER

TO VOTERS

CITIZENS: Next Tuesday is the primary election. I realize there has been little interest shown in the contests, nevertheless it is your duty as citizens to go to the polls and vote. There is no municipal issue so small that it does not deserve your consideration. A light vote is predicted. I hope the prediction is wrong. It would be wise for some of you to go to the polls for the primary so you will know where to vote at the November election.

CIRCUITEER

'ROUND CIRCLEVILLE . . Hour by Hour

Pages from the Diary of an Antiquated Reporter:

Up to a morning of promised rain, so did add my prayer to that of the farmers whose corn is beginning to show the lack of moisture. Iowa is supposed to be the state "Where The Tall Corn Grows," but a cog must have slipped this season, for we have it right here. Personally did see fourteen-foot corn growing in a field last evening. Heard, also, about several Kentuckians who came to the county to obtain jobs as corn cutters. They looked over a field or two and went right back home for their squirrel rifles, saying they would be back to knock off their winter meat.

Chatted with Turney Weldon, who reported seeing 16 cranes fishing in backwater near the river this morning, eleven white ones and five brown ones. Bunny Will this week, at least, has no intention of following in the footsteps of his banker father, Clark. Bunny has gone into the show business, aided and abetted by several other youngsters of the neighborhood. Noted him standing on the sidewalk in front of the Mount street home, wearing an old silk topcoat and a bathrobe and shouting to all that his show is the biggest and best on earth. Do remember when I staged shows as a kid and that I always regretted the lack of adult interest in my super colossal productions. So, if Bunny will advise me as to the time of the next showing I will be present as a paying customer and make no attempt to talk him out of a pass.

Down Washingtonway the treasury statisticians have figured out that Pickaway contains had an income of approximately $9,000,000 during the first six months of this year. Included in the federal income figure is the total distribution of money in wages, interest, dividends, royalties, rents and similar items. That is about $300 for each resident of the county. The last half of the year should show an increase over the first.

Fell in with Bish Given and Joe Burns, they talking about bass fishing and planning an afternoon excursion next week. Did accept an invitation to accompany them. At noon, attended the Rotary luncheon with Bob Terhune, the new high school principal, and Wayne Galvin, of Wilmington, as my guests. Listened with interest as Dr. Montgomery delivered a learned address. In the early afternoon did pound the paves in search of news, which to all appearances was on a holiday.

Entertained the thought that those very few light drizzles during the day were slight for such dark clouds. There goes Ernie Weller, who is on vacation from his state job. Chatted with Paul Adkins and bowed to George Griffith. Gerald Hanley must be catching few fish on his Upper Michigan jaunt, for no one has heard from him. Bud Harden is the man who has the real jinx on the finny tribe of northern waters.

Home in the late afternoon and there remained, retiring at a reasonable hour.

RUSTLE OF SILKS

COPYRIGHT, RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

READ THIS FIRST:
Mary Barrett, ambitious to become a dress designer, is in Paris where she has just obtained a job with Countess Anetka, owner of a small dress shop. She had been recommended to Anetka by Mark Sutherland, American playboy and mutual friend who admired Mary from the first following their meeting on shipboard. Mary likes Mark but misses Tony Castle, owner of a smart New York shop who gave her her first taste of fashion. She is suddenly disillusioned after an altercation with Tony's head buyer, Flanagan. Lonesome and called for Paris impulsively. More and more she realizes she is in love with Tony. Anetka offers her a partnership. Before long Mary has visions of wide success with the shop. Meanwhile, as Christmas Eve arrives, Tony still searches for Mary in New York. (NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER 18

MARY was showing an American acquaintance from Brooklyn, the sights of Paris. And here they were at a Parisian boulevard cafe with Anetka and Sergei.

"Dubonnet Citron," Mary said, and hastily touched the tip of Paul Joslin's brogue with the toe of her slipper. "See there! That agent de police has the longest mustaches in all France!" She spoke in a whisper while the waiter hovered anxiously but politely in the background waiting for M. Joslin to order his aperitif.

"Picon Grenadine," Paul said, dismissing him and giving his attention to the imposing mustaches. "Whew! Imagine one of New York's 'finest' don't keep up in a cookie duster like that!"

"What is a cookie duster?" Sergei asked.

"Sergei, he does not understand American argot. One does not use French argot; it is not polite," Anetka explained to their guest.

Mary defined the slang expression for Anetka's fiancé and was rewarded with a deep laugh of appreciation from the bearded Russian.

"Perhaps I'd better pick up some of the argot. I'll be a sensation back home," Paul said lightly.

"Perhaps you'd better not!" Mary said firmly. "There are too many other and finer things to take back from France."

"You like it here, don't you, Mary?"

"Of course, I do, Paul. Wasn't it Ben Franklin who said, 'Every man has two countries: his own, and then France'?"

"By golly, I like it myself. But that Metro!" He shook his head. "I can't get used to buying first-class tickets on a subway."

"It's one class in New York," Mary said for Anetka's benefit, "and every man for himself."

"She thought I was keeping talking about these things. I'll have a first-class case of homesteads. She remembered the mornings and the evenings in which she had fought for a seat or even standing room at Times Square, and wished passionately that she might be there at the moment instead of sitting leisurely at a sidewalk cafe on a Parisian boulevard."

"One day we will all go to New York and M. Joslin will take us for a long ride on the subway," Anetka said happily.

"All the way from Van Courtland park to Coney Island," he promised.

To which Mary added: "We'll take you to the department stores where you will see OUR models copied, Anetka."

Paul sighed. "Always business, Mary?"

"Mostly," she said.

"How can you? Only an American could sit here in the spring twilight and think of business," he deplored.

Another time, she thought, or another place with another person and this beautiful golden haze would hurt with its beauty, but now I am insulated to beauty that hurts.

"Paris never sleeps," Sergei said with an effort to be informative. "How can it with so many things to be seen?" Paul took a deep breath as though to breathe it in. "I like the way the French enjoy themselves. They're like kids. Everything is gay to them. Gay and beautiful. I'm taking back pictures they can't put in books. The tree-lined boulevards, the beautiful buildings, the wonderful cafes. The places that are awake from dawn to dawn. And hands! Boy how I love hand music!"

Mary smiled at him. "Paul, you're such a beautiful guest! So satisfactory. I'm so glad you looked me up. I thought you'd forgotten me."

"Kate wrote my sister that you were living with her, so it wasn't hard to trace you. As for forgetting you—you were the prettiest girl in our class at Erasmus High."

"And you were the football hero!"

"Football! We must see the football in America. Perhaps next spring, yes?" Anetka broke in.

"Not in the spring, Countess, the autumn!"

"And not next autumn, either," Mary said. "We have plans for next autumn that do not include trips to America."

"You getting along all right, Mary?" Paul asked anxiously.

"Just splendid, Paul, but it's uphill work."

"How long you been over here?"

"It will be two years in June . . . no, July. Anetka and I incorporated a year ago last December. At first when I came I thought it would take even less time to force recognition but now I know better. However, we're satisfied, aren't we, petruska?"

Anetka nodded her small blond head vigorously.

Indeed they had done well.

How well, Mary had not considered until Paul Joslin came to Paris. In her year and a half of association with Anetka, she had developed a Gaelic frugality. Her daring vision, which was to serve her well later, had been blurred by the strict adherence to matters of the moment.

To the small shop off the boulevard of St. Germain, there came an increasing number of clients. Busy with sketch pad, buying and supervising the execution of their mounting orders, Mary had little time to dream happily over the increasing figures in their joint account.

She had worked indefatigably now for over a year. She had made a few friends. Ellin had gone back to America. But it wasn't until her old neighbor, Paul had turned up in Paris with his pockets filled with money and enthusiasm the like of which Mary had forgotten, that she took time off to play.

This time, it was she who introduced a newcomer to Paris. And this time she found it great fun. Paul wanted to see the flamboyant gaiety of Paris and so they saw the underworld where they went to the shabby wine shops, to the basement cafes and the cabarets.

They spent a hilarious evening on the way to the Folies Bergere. And enjoyed the inextricable position into which their taxi driver maneuvered their cab in the time-honored fashion. There were wheezes and blowing of horns and the gendarme's whistle and much brandishing of truncheons; then they fought their way through the vendors into the building.

They went to marionette shows, band concerts and dance halls. And, at last, Paul said the place he wanted most to see was Mary's shop. The folks in Brooklyn would want to know about it, he said.

And when Mary piloted him up the narrow stairs and into the now crowded "front" room, showed him her sketches, the books of orders and the busy workroom, he scratched his head and cleared his throat.

"Look here," he said, "I think you girls have got something here! But you're in the wrong spot. You ought to be on the ground floor. I've got a little money to invest, Mary. I haven't been doing so badly, and I'd be glad to give you a hand."

"Paul! I don't suppose I'd have thought of it, if you hadn't pointed it out to me right now. But that's what we should do and we've got plenty of capital to do it with. Thanks very much for the offer, but more for the suggestion."

"Anetka, Inc. is about to edge in."

That night she decided that the firm would plunge.

Dr. Clendening Tells Truth About Acidity

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

IF THE BODY turns acid can it cause spots on the skin, eruptions, hives, headache, bilious feelings, etc., etc.?

That is a very general belief, but has very little foundation in scientific fact.

I get many letters about this time of year which go like this: "I feel as if I were very acid. I think it comes from eating tomatoes (or a trawberries, or some fruit). I have an eruption on my skin last week. Then I have had a crop of canker sores. What should I eat to avoid this?"

When you begin talking about the acidity of the body, or the state of the reaction of the body tissues, you must realize that you are dealing with a question that can be determined with the greatest scientific accuracy. A small amount of blood can be sent to a laboratory, and it will be possible to tell right away whether it is about neutral, as should be in health, or even slightly acid, or slightly alkaline. So, since we have made these tests on many subjects, we can say with certainty whether any condition is due to acidity or not.

And the rashes and cold sores and bilious feelings are not due to acidity.

Acidity is a very real bodily condition and occurs not from eating fruits, but from eating fats.

Yet nobody says, "I got a little acid today from the cream I had yesterday." It is always "from tomatoes," or "strawberries," whereas both tomatoes and strawberries burn to an alkaline ash in the body.

It is true that meat burns to an acid ash and also bread, but in health these ashes are quickly neutralized.

This neutral balance which the body maintains is one of the most perfect and stable of our bodily mechanisms.

The body preserves its neutrality merely. Foods bring both acid and alkaline elements into it. Far more patent in acid production, however, are the active body cells themselves. Every time a muscle contracts it produced some lactic acid.

To counteract this the lungs constantly eliminate a volatile acid; the kidneys conserve alkalis. Last, and of great importance, is the ability of the blood, through its buffer substances, to turn acids into alkalis, and alkalis into acids as needed to preserve neutrality.

To the same end it can utilize sodium chloride—ordinary table salt—either as acid or alkali—the "chloride shift."

All the big wars have been ground into so many best sellers and they are now pretty threadbare. Even such second rate setos as the Blackhawk war have had their going over.

So Joe has decided to do his historical novel about new subjects. He has decided to take his wife's family and ancestors for a theme. That family is plenty historic—after a fashion.

For instance Great Aunt Phoney Brown was baking biscuits in her family lean-to in Chicago when the Haymarket riots broke out. The forces of law and order used her biscuits for missiles and restored peace by means of those deadly weapons.

Great Uncle Amos Pinchpenny held the United States army sprint championship, wearing full kit, for four years. He was the fastest runner at both battles of Bull Run.

Cousin Catsmeat Jones was one of the first men in the big victory parade held in New York to celebrate the end of the World war. He held up the drum for the band.

Nephew Ewald Punch hasn't done anything historical yet but give him time. But he's planning something big—that's why he's temporarily vacationing for six months, twice a year, at Joe's expense.

SMART PAJAMAS HOLD THEIR PLACE IN SUN

PAJAMAS do not seem to be the Big News in the fashion world this season. But, nevertheless, they have a very definite place and are preferred by many very smart women.

Those worn here by Helen Valkis, young screen actress, are, as you can see, decidedly chic. Blue piping trims the pockets, wide lapels and short sleeves. The jacket is smartly and trimly cut, and a navy blue shirt with a jeweled clip at the neckline gives the ensemble a still smarter air. For the sleeping and lounging pajamas, rayons are great favorites, salespeople find. Satin pajamas are always popular, and one model I saw recently in wine satin had a number of features that are used in dresses—button-link closing and trim on cuffs of the short sleeves. Large patch pockets were effectively placed, too.

Another model was in marine blue satin, and it, too, had many of the features of the tailored type of dress, with novelty pockets, stitched in white at the edges, and closing with a slide fastener. Brief tucked sleeves gave width to the shoulders.

Helen Valkis

by Mrs. Grant brought the meeting to a close.

Grace Hoffman Returns
Miss Grace Hoffman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Seymour Hoffman, of Walnut township, has returned after a trip to New York City and Washington, D. C. She was one of a group of twelve pupils who accompanied their teacher, Mrs. Charlotte Gamble, accordion instructor, of Columbus, on this trip.

The group spent three days at the New Yorker Hotel attending a music convention. During the session, the girls received personal introductions to, and autographs of some of the best known artists of the world in all fields of music. The members of the party were interested visitors on board the S. S. Queen Mary, which happened to be in port.

At a banquet given at the Astor Hotel, for the convention guests, the visitors witnessed the playing of five large organs as an ensemble number and heard 23 xylophones and marimbas play an ensemble selection.

They attended Radio City Music Hall, the largest theater in the world, and also the RCA playhouse. Other places visited were the Empire State building, Chrysler building, Governor's Island, the Statue of Liberty, Ellis Island, China Town at midnight, and they encircled Manhattan island on a boat. They were present for the broadcast of two radio programs, "True Story" and "Magic Key." The group had dinner one evening, on the 65th floor of the RCA building, which is the largest, but not the tallest building in the world. A visit to Coney Island was also included in the trip. While in New York City, the group broadcast accordion numbers from one of the radio studios.

Dresbach Reunion
The descendants of Jacob and Elizabeth Harvey Dresbach held their reunion at the Hallsville school grounds. A dinner was served to 54 members and three guests.

In the afternoon a business session was held with Harland Dresbach, president, in charge. Evelyn Dresbach is secretary and Richard Dresbach, treasurer. The same officers were retained for the ensuing year. The 1938 reunion will be held the first Sunday in August, at Rising Park, Lancaster. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Richard Dresbach and daughters, Margery and Dorothy, Mr. and Mrs. Ged Dresbach, Mr. and Mrs. Warner Dresbach and daughters, Florence Helen, and Jessie, Mabel Andrews, Peggy Andrews, Clarence Hudson, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Dresbach and daughters, Margaret Ann and Phyllis Lee, of Circleville; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Raymond and children, and Annie Lou Raymond, of Lancaster; Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Heffner, Whistler; Mr. and Mrs. Mrs. Lyman Dresbach and children, of Kingston; Miss Irene Dresbach, Mt. OTHER MAJOR INDICATED
AN INFORMATIVE double of one major suit nearly always indicates possession of the other suit, or at least enough cards of it to furnish a satisfactory fit if the partner bids it in response to the double. Bearing that point in mind can be of value to the opponents if they happen to play the contract. The declarer can feel almost certain that the man who doubled possesses at least four cards of the other major suit and can lay his plans accordingly.

Due to the double, South played West for a four-card heart holding and felt he could squeeze him in that suit or force him to toss the club J, either of which would be equally beneficial to the declarer.

Nominating Committee Meets To Select Chairman For Local Participation

TO CONFER MONDAY

Details To Be Worked Out For Ox Caravan's Visit

Hooper Terwilliger, attorney, has nominated Thursday afternoon for the chairmanship of the committee in charge of Circleville's celebration of the 150th anniversary of the Ordinance of 1878 and settlement of the Northwest Territory.

Mr. Terwilliger was selected by a nominating committee of five persons, appointed last Monday night by Mayor W. J. Graham. The nominating committee met in the offices of T. A. Renick, temporary chairman.

The nominating committee will make its report next Monday night at a meeting of the group making plans for the celebration. The meeting will be held in the council chamber at 8 p. m.

Thirty-four persons representing the various veterans, historical, civic and fraternal organizations were appointed on a committee by Mayor Graham to handle celebration plans.

The committee will work out details for the ox team covered wagon caravan, traveling from Ipswich, Mass., to Marietta, O., to visit Circleville. A group of actors will accompany the caravan to present pageants in the cities visited. A program of interesting features in Pickaway county's history will be added to the celebration.

The caravan starts Dec. 3, 1937 and will reach its destination on April 7, 1938. No date has been set for the caravan's visit to Circleville.

An operation on the living mother was impossible, because, though she was doomed, she would have died instantly of shock, and, technically, Judge Kalodner ruled, the operative surgeon would have been liable.

Wait Through Night

So the painful wait went on — a tiny, white room furnished only with a cot where the unconscious woman, wasted but young looking despite the fever that was burning her body, lay still, her nerves deadened with opiates, dying by inches, and a chair in which a nurse sat waiting. Now and then, Dr. Corbit came in and took her temperature, counted her pulse, listened through his stethoscope to the sturdy heart beats of the child. He had made arrangements for the operation in the adjoining room, but as the mother's temperature mounted, the equipment was that there was no assurance that either the house or senate agriculture committees would have a bill ready that early.

Other house leaders asserted that a decision to call a special session would result in postponement of action on tax loophole-closing and the wage and hour measures until Autumn.

DOCTORS FIGHT TO SAVE BABY

ive force offered battle. Labor began and her body struggled to give birth, but too late.

Father Adamant

Mrs. Boccawinski was admitted to the hospital's tubercular ward July 27. The course of her disease advanced hand in hand with the development of the unborn child. Wednesday night death approached and she was moved into the maternity ward for the inevitable. Then her husband asserted his authority. If the mother died, he said, the baby would have to die with her. It was the will of God; there could be no operation.

Ordinarily, hospitals must be guided by the wish of the patient, or if the patient is beyond expression, by the wish of the nearest of kin. In this case, the hospital asked City Solicitor G. Joe Carrier to give an opinion on its legal position. He referred it to Common Pleas Court Judge Harry E. Kalodner who found an old court ruling which held that an unborn baby had certain legal rights and could properly sue for injuries suffered by its mother which adversely affected it while still in her womb. Therefore, he reasoned, to permit an unborn child to die unnecessarily would be illegal.

Surgeon Only 28

That decided, the hospital and Dr. Corbit, a tall, serious giant, only 28 years old who finished his internship in the same hospital only a few months ago, prepared for the rare post-mortem caesarian which gives a surgeon only eight minutes to work if he is to successfully take a live baby from a dead mother's body. In that time the blood stream, which had been propelled by a now stilled heart, loses its momentum and ceases to carry life-sustaining oxygen to the baby. The baby then suffocates.

Slowly during yesterday and last night, the minutes and hours dragged by. In the hospital corridor, Dominic, a swarthy, heavy-set and unshaven man who came to this country from Italy in 1920 and earns a bare living as a sugar mill worker, lingered, utterly bewildered by the strange drama that had encompassed his life.

Reluctantly, he seconded the judge's opinion; the operation could be performed, but only after the mother had died.

"But if the baby lives, the doctors will have to keep it," he said. "I got to work. I can't work and take care of a baby. If Mary dies, I got no place to take baby. But they better not do nothing to Mary while she lives. That's what I don't want."

BROTHERS SEEK RECEIVER AFTER $995 JUDGMENT

Suit to marshal liens and asking appointment of a receiver was filed in common pleas court Friday by Robert L. and Fred Immell, doing business as Immell Bros. against John Watson, Wayne township, and others.

The petition says the plaintiffs recovered a judgment for $995 against the defendant last July 21, and that it remains unpaid. An application for appointment of a receiver will be heard by Judge J. W. Adkins Monday at 10 a. m.

moved into the same room to save the precious seconds when the time came.

Shortly after 3 a. m. this morning a nurse ran up to Dr. Corbit in the corridor.

"Come quickly, doctor."

He ran into the room. The mother had died an instant before. Another nurse had summoned his assistant, Dr. Sally Youngman. The body was lifted onto the operating table. The table of sterilizing instruments, gauzes and towels was wheeled in. Rubber gloves were slipped onto the powerful fingers of the surgeons, masks were adjusted, a nurse listened to the baby's heart beats pounding through the mother's dead body. Sixty seconds later, the baby was born.

Mrs. Boccawinski was 27 years old, a native of West Virginia. She had been tubercular and frail for years and had been a patient in the hospital's charity ward before. Meningitis developed and when she was taken to the hospital she was in a dying condition.

Two Other Children

She and Boccawinski had been married several years. From his small income, he had to pay a great deal for doctors and medicines for her. By a previous marriage, he has two children, Isabelle, 12, and Serge, 10. The girl lived with the family, but the boy is in a Catholic orphanage.

The caesarian operation is surgically termed a "section." It takes its name from the legend that Julius Caesar owed his birth to it.

Modern surgical technique — particularly the introduction of asepsis — has greatly reduced the mortality rate and the operation is not unusual.

THREAT OF WAR GROWS IN EAST

banks cancelled forward exchange contracts with Japanese and asked all Japanese depositors to close their accounts.

Japanese complained that three Chinese airplanes, presumably military ones, flew low over the Japanese concession as if reconnoitering.

The Japanese, according to reports, acted because there seemed serious danger. The Flotilla commander issued his "emergency" order at 11 o'clock last night. Japanese sources said that he acted in view of indications that Chinese forces were surrounding the Japanese concession to launch an attack, and that the marines faced Chinese soldiers across the road dividing the concession from the city proper.

He asserted, according to the Japanese version, that the Chinese force in the neighborhood of the concession had been strengthened, that it had erected barricades and that therefore the assurance of Chinese authorities that Japanese property and lives were safe seemed to be contradicted.

Most Americans residing at Hankow live in the French and the former British concessions.

United States marine headquarters here said today that the river gunboats Guam, Luzon, and Oahu were standing by to protect them.

The Guam carries 65 men, the Luzon 82 and the Oahu 65. Each ship is armed with 3-inch guns and 10 machine guns.

1,300 MEN FIGHT FOREST FLAMES OVER WIDE AREA

RANDLE, Wash., Aug. 5.—(UP)—An army of 1300 men fought a raging forest fire which had swept over 2,000 acres of timber land and threatened 2,000 acres more.

The fire believed to have been started by lightning, broke out last week in a rugged area remote from a suitable base of supplies.

The fire broke out on the tops of the resinous evergreen trees last night and leaped over wide gaps while firefighters on the ground were helpless.

Fear that the fire would enter a vast track of virgin timber was expressed by K. P. Cecil, supervisor of the Columbia national forest.
